

LaborVoices is a social responsible company looking to revolutionize the supply chain worldwide with workers by helping each other around the world. We will accomplish this by applying transparency to the labor supply chain at a level that will give migrant workers the ability to inform and share important information for all workers around the world, effectively giving workers the most powerful voice in the supply chain.

Why invest in LaborVoices? We're forging reputations of markets around the labor supply chain and with a scalable and sustainable model, are reaching every worker in the bottom of the pyramid (BoP). By engaging the BoP demographic, and providing a platform to share information, we have the advantage of being the first to engage the BoP population with a trusted network that enhances their safety and promotes sound pre-migration decisions. With this trust, we can effectively overcome the barrier of access to the BoP and develop strong relationships with grass roots companies that have existing bonds of trust with migrant workers world wide. We use a trust economy and use our profits to educate workers to make proper choices, while educating brands and consumers about these choices, while focusing products that will enhance the well being of the BoP demographic; we can capitalize by marketing products specific to the BoP as well as capitalize on our information flow to provide careful analysis of specific products to the supply chain.

What is the next step for Investors and LV? Angel investing in a social enterprise in India and long-term, world-wide. We look for immediate impact in India--3 to 5 year break even horizon which may include world-wide endeavor. We are looking for 2-5 million in capital for aggressive expansion across India and into other strategic markets.
